

Schütte-Wicklein GmbH is your leading company for roof and façade technology, with a reputation for quality throughout the region and beyond. If you're looking for excellence in roofs and façades, look no further. We have a great deal of specialist experience in large-scale roofs and complex façade components, and have been at your service as a highly competent and qualified partner since 1971. Our systems stand out due to their superior design, quality, durability and environmental compatibility.

In close cooperation with the planning architects, we develop practicable solutions which meet even your most stringent demands. We implement your ideas and design suggestions using the latest materials and applying current energy standards.

With us, your large-scale commercial/industrial projects are in safe hands. Size is not an issue – customised formats and pitches are our speciality. We offer a broad product range which leaves nothing to be desired. Security, load-bearing capacity and reliability in all weather conditions are always matters of absolute priority both during the implementation of the project and once it is completed.

Schütte-Wicklein Solar GmbH was founded in 2006 to offer our customers professional support in the implementation of photovoltaic and solar systems. At the same time, they also profit from the extensive roof and façade construction experience of Schütte-Wicklein GmbH.

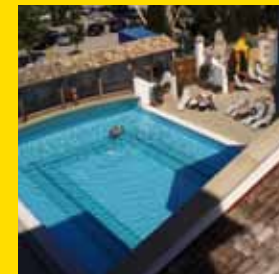

Our employees are always up to date with current developments in solar technology and provide you with support in the realisation of your own photovoltaic installation or solar system.

We are your expert partner for all current developments in the solar technology sector. We would be pleased to assist you in finding the right photovoltaic or solar installation.

Using experience gathered over many years of operating in the roof and façade sector, we have developed our own mounting system – TRAtec – for photovoltaic and solar modules. This guarantees that the system will be mounted onto your prebuilt or new building in a way which is individually tailored to your needs.

Our efficient and competent team comprises 85 highly qualified employees, who are on hand to actively support you from the initial conception right up to the completion of your installation project. We place great emphasis on comprehensive training and further education and therefore offer annual apprenticeships for young people interested in a career in the sector.
